BIJLAGE 5 STAPPEN DATAFILTERING

Integrate en Collect events voor Kernel Density. Allereerst moeten de punten uit de data samengevoegd worden. Het veld dat deze waardes bevat is je 'Analysis Field'. Voor data met punten is vaak de intensiteit een belangrijker gegeven dan het onderzoeken van de clustering van losse elementen. Er zijn verschillende tools om data samen te voegen, maar in dit geval is de 'Integrate' tool het meest geschikt omdat die is gericht op overlappende punten en punten op korte afstand van elkaar. De data wordt samengevoegd op de afstand die ingegeven wordt. In dit onderzoek gaan we er vanuit dat foto's binnen 100 meter van elkaar over hetzelfde stedelijke element gaan. De 'Integrate' tool neemt de cases binnen dit gebied en maakt er 1 punt van.

Je kan de 'Integrate' tool vinden onder Datamanagement/Feature Class. In het geval van de data in dit onderzoek bleek deze toepassing in eerste instantie niet mogelijk. Maar met de 'Copy Features' tool, te vinden onder Datamanagement/Features, krijgt elke case een ObjectID waardoor de cases wel apart herkend worden. Belangrijk bij de 'Integrate' tool is dat de originele data van tevoren wordt opgeslagen, aangezien de data wordt aangepast door de samenvoeging.

Vervolgens moeten deze samengevoegde punten een waarde toebedeeld krijgen. Hierbij komt de 'Collect Events' tool van pas. Collect Events combineert punten die overlappen. Hierbij creëert het een nieuwe 'Output Feature Class' met alle originele lokaties. Het voegt vervolgens een veld toe genaamd ICOUNT om de som van alle cases op een unieke lokatie bij te houden. Omdat deze feature alleen werkt voor punten met gelijke X en Y coördinaten, was het intergreren van belang. De 'Collect Events' tool is te vinden onder Spatial Statistics/Rendering/Collect events with rendering.
